ALBANY'S CHANCES TO LAND HOSPITAL ARE EXCELLENT IS DR. WILK'S BELIEF

Local Pastor Urges People Generally to Get Behind the Movement.

ADVANTAGES POINTED OUT, OVER NEIGHBORS

CITY WILL SUFFER FINANCIAL LOSS IF LOSES THE INSTITUTION.

Albany has an excellent chance to land the new state Baptist hospital, according to Dr. W. P. Wilk, pastor of the Central Baptist church, who is one of the prime movers in the effort to bring the institution here.

Speaking of the hospital situation Dr. Wilk said:

"Those who have studied the present needs are convinced that our local needs call for at least three or four times the hospital facilities now possessed. It is not uncommon for even the manager of our present hospital to have to give up her room to patients and herself sleep in the basement. With that, it is impossible to accommodate all who would go there for treatment. Physicians say that about half the Albany-Decatur patients who must have hospital accommodations are sent to other cities and that fully seventy-five per cent of those in the county likewise are forced to patronize hospitals elsewhere. Only occasionally do patients come here from the adjoining counties of Culkin, Lawrence, and Limestone, all without hospitals of their own. A large percentage of all these patients would be sent here did not the physicians know of the crowded conditions already existing here. So, then, the local needs require many times as much hospital room as we are able to afford. If we had a hospital of a general nature, all north Alabama would be regular patrons and many from even the remote sections of the state, and also from southern Tennessee would add to the patronage. We must have more hospital accommodations.

"As affairs now stand, no other city in the state seems to me to stand so good a chance of securing it as does Albany. In fact, we have special Baptist claims possessed by no other. If now we can have a hearty and unanimous backing of our people victory is almost in sight.

Would Lose Much

"In the first place, there would be a big financial loss if the hospital is not located here. A quarter of a million dollars is to be invested by the Baptists of the state within the next four years in buildings and equipment with the almost certain addition of another quarter of a million within the five years following. This half-million dollars is to be spent somewhere; quite probably here, if we go after it right, certainly elsewhere unless we put up a fight for it. In addition to the money invested by the denomination, the money paid by patients and spent by their visiting families and friends would add many thousands of dollars to our trade every year. Then, the prestige added to the town would be more valuable than any estimate of dollars and cents. More than 225,000 white Baptists in the state, would have their special attention directed this way every time there was illness in their families. The same would be true of

HOW TO QUALIFY

Unless the legislature, at its extraordinary session, changes the election laws of the state applying to women, the following rules will cover qualification as voters:

Must be 21 years of age or over.

Must have lived in the state 2 years, in the county 1 year and in the voting precinct 90 days prior to the election.

Must register and pay poll tax.

To register, must be able to read and write or pay taxes on $300 worth of real estate.

It is considered very likely that the legislature will permit women to register and vote this year without the payment of back polls. They may be required to pay their poll tax for the current year, after October 1.

BOOTLEGGERS ENJOY PROTECTION; GIVE THEM SENTENCES

—SAYS ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

The following open letter shows conclusively that the organized law breaker is supported in his nefarious business by men in authority who cry observe the law but break it when it suits their appetites or pocket books.

"Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer, Attorney General of the United States Washington, D. C.

"The imposition of fines of $100,000 each upon seventy-five violators of the liquor law in the United States District Court in New York City yesterday merely accentuates a condition which has become a National scandal.
The amount of such a fine can be cleaned up in the profits of a single day by an active bootlegger, to say nothing of the ring leaders in an organized illicit traffic who are getting rich. Such fines amount to a license and a very cheap license" it that.

"So long as Federal Judges retain the absurdly fatuous policy of imposing nominal fines upon first offenders, the "master minds" will merely employ a new set of hired men to be arrested and pay these cheap license-fines and continue the policy of chasing the rabbit around the stump to the edification of law-breakers and the disgust of decent citizens. Such fines at the present time in the light of the disclosure of New York as the center of a gigantic National plot to override the Prohibition Law and make it ridiculous, are an outrage. And any Judge who is not capable of realizing that a continuation of such policy constitutes de facto encouragement of violation of the law is eligible for retirement for reasons that are obvious.

"The fines yesterday were fixed by a visiting judge. We understand that it is the policy of the District Attorney for the Southern District of New York, who in our judgment is conscientious and doing his best on this question (we wish we could say as much for every Federal district attorney in this state) to recommend jail sentences for sales even in the case of first offenders. We understand that the United States judges who belong in this particular district are rather disposed to impose such sentences in accordance with such recommendation but that visiting judges persist in following the course which is responsible in large degree for the deplorable situation that exists.

"We understand perfectly that you cannot control these judges who are appointed for life, but you can make it clear that district attorneys will be protected if they let the facts be known, so that they can clear their own skirts and absolve the Department of Justice from responsibility if any judge imposes a nominal fine in spite of the recommendation of the Department as represented by the District Attorney.

"In the face of indisputable evidence of unscrupulous conspiracy to break down the whole law, anything less than the imposition of jail penalties to the limit for illegal sales of liquor even for wilful first offenders constitutes trifling with the situation.

"Yours respectfully,
"(Signed) William H. Anderson, State Superintendent,
"Anti-Saloon League of New York."

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Governor James M. Cox, democratic presidential nominee, plunged into a series of conferences immediately after his arrival from New Haven, Conn., today.

Governor Cox and his party arrived at Grand Central Station at 10:20 o'clock. The conferences took place in the Governor's private car at the station. Among those taking part were national democratic chairman of Mississippi, chairman of the democratic speaker's bureau.

This was Governor Cox's first "official" visit to New York City. A great crowd cheered him at the station. The crowd began to gather several hours before the nominees arrived and was held in line by details of police. A delegation of thirty women from the New York Woman's Democratic Club, pelted the nominees with roses as he emerged from his private car, following the conference.
The Governor walked from the station to the Commodore, only a short distance away, and received a noisy demonstration.

COX'S CHALLENGE TO SENATOR KENYON

Press agent stories to the effect that Governor Cox, the democratic candidate for the presidency, would be "subpoenaed" to appear before the senatorial committee originally created to investigate pre-campaign expenditures of certain presidential candidates who had not been approved by the senatorial cabal, have been sharply offset by the challenge of the Governor to Senator Kenyon. This challenge, briefly stated, is for Kenyon to summon the various state republican chairmen and question them as to whether or not they have been told to raise certain "quotas", the amounts of which have been made public.

It is squarely up to the Kenyon committee, if it aspires to any other role than that of a partisan organization, to delve into the charges made by Governor Cox. If this committee really sees the light, if it is honest in its purposes, if it abhors the purchase of a presidency as much as it abhors the purchase of a republican nomination, let it act promptly. Mere denials from men who could not afford to admit their corruption will not fool the American voter. He must be shown.

WHEN BIRMINGHAM
RESTED ATLANTA

Plattery is such an insidious thing that Birmingham is actually delighted because its quota of the republican presidential biddle fund was $50,000, or twice the paltry $25,000 assessed against Atlanta. There is an intense rivalry between the two cities, and a preponderance of crime, a higher cost of living, bigger bank clearings or any other thing that shows a dominance in a given field is always hailed with joy in the burg that is on top. So little wonder that the Magic City chantier flags his wings and crows because Treasurer Upham of the republican National committee had reasons for believing that the Alabama metropolis could be milked for twice the juice that is to be stripped from its Cracker rival.

The truth of the matter is that Birmingham is the center of a great industrial district where huge corporations thrive. It has its steel trust and its coal barons. It has its pronounced capitalistic leanings because of its place in the financial sun. It has interests that would profit—in dollars and cents—from special favors shown by a republican congress and a republican president. Atlanta, with its unlimited supply of hot air and nerve, with its magnificent "location", is immune to the plannings of the G. O. P. ring master. Let the bull whip crack; it has nothing to gain by being put upon the preferred list of those who would purchase the right to plunder the American people. Why should not Birmingham be made to double Atlanta's "quotas"?

Thus, by mere inference, the truth of the charges made by Governor Cox is circumstantially established. And a closer analysis of the list of "quotas" will help to convince even the most skeptical that the predatory party has made up its mind to "buy the presidency."

THE CALL FOR AN EXTRA SESSION

Governor Kilby, of Alabama, is to be commended for his prompt action in calling a special session of the legislature to enact laws permitting the women of the state to vote in the November election. To have done otherwise would have been not only to discriminate against a large class of voters, but also against the sixty-four counties that are without all-the-time registration facilities.

While an extra session was necessary to enfranchise Alabama women, it is devoutly to be hoped that the call will not include many other legislative matters. The people are tired of disturbed conditions, are tired of a superabundance of law-making, are ready and willing to settle down and do "business as usual". Let the session be a short one.

Republican treasurer Upham says that Governor Cox's exposure of the republican slush fund was a "$15,000,000 dream." He meant to say that it was a republican "nightmare".

Women in South St. Paul, Minn., have already voted under the provisions of the new nineteenth amendment. Therefore, they believe that Secretary Cox's call for an extra session will mean a possible wait.

The haste that is being displayed in separating Charles Ponzi from his wealth entitle him to first place as a "get-rich-quick" financier.

Texas has proclaimed ratification day as a holiday. Alabama, which has already arranged for the banks to close on nearly all the days of the month ending in odd numbers now has a chance to add another holiday to its extensive calendar.

Revenge is not near so sweet as this 17 cent sugar.

Most any session of the Alabama legislature could be considered "extraordinary."

Albany's Chances
To Land Hospital

those of all denominations. Even those who do not come here would consider doing so. Thus it would be a great advertising medium for the city. And who could calculate the lasting effect of the later ties binding those who come here for treatment to our community?"

"Should we fail to get the Baptist hospital will we have gained anything by making a determined fight for it?" Dr. Wilks was asked.

"Certainly. For one thing, we have already put Albany on the map in a new way. The thirty citizens who showed their interest by going to Birmingham to appear before the hospital commission opened the eyes of the people down that way to the aliveness of our people. The fight we could make would make the whole state 'sit up and take notice'. If the citizens will adequately back up the Chamber of Commerce, Albany will be heard from in such a way that no one in the state, much less in north Alabama, will ever again be asking, 'Where is Albany, anyhow?'

"But better than the advertising, if the proper co-operation is received in this effort, we will get up so much hospital enthusiasm that we will build an adequate hospital of our own if we fail to land this one."

"My interest in locating it here is altogether as a citizen of Albany. As a Baptist, I could take as much denominational pride in it at one place as another. It would be as much as a Baptist, elsewhere as here. As a citizen of Albany, I am a thorough believer in our community. I have felt that this is the place for it and am doing all that I can to help secure it. The effort was initiated by the Chamber of Commerce without even being suggested by me. They chose me to head the delegation to Birmingham and to lead in other matters simply because of my acquaintance with the members of the commission and my connection with Baptist affairs in the state."

"In this connection, I am glad to be able to state that it has in no sense been an effort confined to the Baptists of the city. Some of our greatest boosters for securing the hospital are of other creeds. So far as I have found, the pastors of all the Churches and the laymen thereof are backing the movement. In its ministry of healing and in the good to be derived by the community no sectarian lines will be known. A Methodist merchant, a Presbyterian rear estate man, a Gothic physician, a Lutheran banker, any one of any denomination will share as much in its benefits as any who bear the name or Baptist."

"Here are the special appeals Albany has, not possessed by any other city asking for the hospital?"

"First: That of greater need. In all north Alabama there is no general hospital of any kind. Every local hospital is crowded beyond its capacity. If the hospital is to be located where it will do the greatest good to the greatest number it ought to be in north Alabama."

"Secondly: That of Baptist obligation. All Baptist institutions in the state are located from Birmingham south. But fully a third of the Baptists in the state are north of Birmingham. Two-thirds of the state now has all institutions owned by Baptists. The neglected one-third has a right to demand that the Baptists of the state shall begin to take them into account."

"Thirdly: The unquestioned future of this section of the state. The time was when north Alabama was considered backward, its land of little value, and its future without much hope. But all that is changed. Land in the "Black Belt" once worth four times as much as land in this section can now be purchased at one-fourth the price which would be turned down by one of our farmers. And this section is just beginning to develop. A great hospital located here now would be in "the ground floor". Its future would have no cloud on the horizon. It could but grow as the section develops."

"Fourthly: Albany is the strategic location in north Alabama. The crossing of the two main railroads of north Alabama together with the river transportation makes it easy of access from all points not only in north Alabama but the whole state. To go to any other section of north Alabama would mean a possible wait."

Republican treasurer Upham says that Governor Cox's exposure of the republican slush fund was a "$15,000,000 dream." He meant to say that it was a republican "nightmare".

Women in South St. Paul, Minn., have already voted under the provisions of the new nineteenth amendment. Therefore, they believe that Secretary Cox's call for an extra session will mean a possible wait.

Time being a great factor in all such cases, would makes its location in such a place altogether impracticable. With one railroad entirely crossing the state from north to south and with another from east to west our advantages are so far ahead of any other north Alabama location that no comparison can be made.

"Fifthly: How badly does Albany want it? The answer to this will largely determine whether or not we secure it. If we are as anxious for it as the places which have not the claims possessed by us it is almost certainly ours. What say you?"

Originated Hyphen Terms.

It is claimed that the term "hyphenated Americans" dates back prior to the year 1876 when John Boyle O'Reilly applied it to a remnant of the old-time Toryism who were objecting to the nation-wide celebration which took place that year.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Every Week He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question

This Week's Question:
Should Albany make a fight for the location of the Baptist State Hospital?

The Answers:

REV. JOSEPH M. SHERIDAN—"There are, it seems to me, very many reasons why Albany should avail herself of every opportunity of having the hospital located here. Every day the need of a first class hospital becomes more and more evident, as we read of such and such persons having gone to Birmingham or Nashville for operations. Then, too, looking at it from a monetary point of view, it means the saving to this municipality of a very large sum of money, which judging from the constant wall from the municipal treasury, would be a very material blessing."

A. S. BLACKWELL—"Yes, I think Albany should make a fight for the location of the Baptist State Hospital for the following reasons: First: Because, in my judgment the Benevolent hospital, the only one we have, is inadequate to take care of the patronage of the community, and for that reason many people in this community go to Birmingham, Nashville and other places to be treated, and for operations; while, if we were better equipped on a large scale, they would patronize home; and besides, people from other towns and communities would come here for treatment—that alone would naturally bring many people here to visit their friends and relatives who would not come otherwise; Second: Because, I believe it would be one of the best and most constant advertising mediums for the city we could establish."

DR. B. F. AUSTIN—"Yes, Albany should make the fight for this hospital for many reasons, some of which are as follows: First, North Alabama is vitally in need of more hospital facilities, whereas, all other sections of the state are adequately supplied; Second, There is no city in Alabama more favorably located for a Hospital of this nature than Albany; Third, Albany could have no better advertisement than participation in a fight for this institution; Fourth, To fight for such a cause shows that Albany, Alabama is Alert, Active and Aggressive."

PROF. R. W. COWART—"In my opinion, yes. There are four very good reasons why this hospital should be located here: First, there are no first class hospitals in North Alabama, those nearest us being in Birmingham, Nashville, Chattanooga and Memphis; Second, our own hospital, though performing a great service, has not the equipment nor the space to accommodate the patients that might be brought to it; Third, the Baptist State Hospital promises to be well equipped and commodious building open to all alike; Fourth, Albany has the site and is the logical, as well as the geographical point for the location of a hospital that is to serve North Alabama."

DR. A. M. ROAN—"Our Benevolent Hospital is well managed, but over-crowded and can not accommodate all the patients that want and need hospital treatment. Hospital proportion in the United States is about one bed to every one hundred people. In order to accommodate our territory we need over two hundred hospital beds. This is a $250,000.00 hospital and will be added to as needed and in a few years will be a million dollar institution. This hospital will be open to all Doctors and all classes of people, as it is to be run as an interdenominational institution. The location of this hospital would make Albany the medical center. Every patient brought to the hospital for treatment averages four to five people who will accompany them while here. They will get acquainted with our city; will make investments and many will make Albany their permanent home."

Dotheboys Hall

In "Nicholas Nickleby," one of Dickens' best novels, occurs the name, Dotheboys Hall. It is the name of a boarding school in the north of England, kept by a heartless villain named Squeers, a place where boys were taken in and "done for." Squeers' system of tuition consisted of alternate heating and starving. In Dickens' time, it is said, such schools existed, and his account of the one over which Squeers presided did much to bring about their extinction.

Old Pennsylvania City

York, Pa., is a city of ancient origin. Here was located the first settlement west of the Susquehanna river. From September 30, 1777, to June 27, 1778, it was the nation's capital, for during that time the British then occupying Philadelphia, the continental congress met in her courthouse. The first money sent by the king of France to aid the cause of American independence was received by congress in this city. And here the first national Thanksgiving proclamation was issued.

Cost of "Shines"
Takes a Tumble

Good old world!
The cost of having your shoes shined by someone else has taken a tumble.

As a result of a little price war of their own, the cost of a "shine," fifteen cents a few days ago, dropped to five cents at one shop today and ten cents at several others, who are expected to follow the lead in the bargain sales.

Ladies' shoes and men's black shoes get the best of the price scale, five cents. Tan shoes still are ten, the pre-war schedule of charges.

LIFE

Life, believe, is not a dream, So dark as sages say;
Oft a little morning rain Foretells a pleasant day:

Sometimes there are clouds of gloom, But these are transient all;
If the shower will make the roses bloom, Oh, why lament its fall?

Rapidly, merrily, Life's sunny hours flit by;

Gratefully, cheerfully, Enjoy them as they fly

What though Death at times steps in,
And calls our best away?

What though Sorrow seems to win, O'er Hope a heavy sway?

Yet Hope again elastic springs, Unconquered, though she fell;

Still buoyant are her golden wings, Still strong to bear us well.

Manfully, fearlessly,
The day of trial bear,
For gloriously, victoriously, Can courage quell despair!

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

The Poetry Society of America announces that its annual prize of $500 for the best volume of poetry published during the year has been awarded for 1919 to John G. Neihardt's "The Song of Three Friends." In the voting there was a tie between Mr. Neihardt's book and Gladys Cromwell's "Poems," and therefore by agreement between the judges and the officers of the society the honor is divided equally, but because of Miss Cromwell's death the entire award goes to Mr. Neihardt. There were three judges—John L. Lowes of Harvard, Edwin Arlington Robinson and Alice Corbin Henderson. The point system was followed in the voting, each judge giving a first, second and third choice. Amy Lowell's "Pictures of the Floating World" and Clement Wood's "The Earth Turns South" each received three points in the voting, while "Starved Rock," by Edgar Lee Masters, received two points and Marjorie Allen Seiffert's "A Woman of Thirty" and Eunice Tietjens' "Body and Raiment," received one point each.—N. Malady of Doubt.

There are plenty of people who think that to doubt everything shows common sense and shrewdness, whereas it may indicate only a narrow-mindedness. But there is an uneasy doubt of one's self which, if not resisted, may become almost a disease. Often, though perfectly sure that we did look the door, or deliver an injunction, or put a memorandum in our pocket, we nourish the doubt all day, or turn out our pocket on our way to work. One symptom of this malady is the hurried, worried search for a missing article in every place save where it usually is, and the astonishment at finding it, and the astonishment in view of the nation."

PRIMITIVE SOUTH SEA CHART

One Used by Native Navigators of the Marshall Islands Was Made of Sticks.

A sea chart of the South Sea Islands made of sticks, which served as an accurate and authoritative guide for the daring navigators of the Marshall Islands just as modern maps do, is one of the exhibits to be seen in the South Sea Island hall of the American Museum of Natural History in New York. The strange sea chart is the gift of Robert Louis Stevenson, who lived on the island of Samoa four years before his death.

Distances between the islands were measured by hours, not miles. These charts are but little used now, but there was a time when each young chief was compelled to pass his examination in the charts, knowing them by heart, as they never were taken to sea. Some students say the sticks represent currents, as there are four distinct sets of swells from four quarters of the seas at various seasons of navigation, which were closely studied by the natives.

The Dickcissel.

The Dickcissel is a small migratory bird, about six and one-fourth inches long, the male beautifully blended with yellow, white and gray, and with a black throat patch and brown shoulders. The female is duller. These birds are very numerous in the middle portions of the United States, frequenting dry, bushy fields or prairies. The Dickcissel is a persistent songster, although its song is weak and has little melody. In July and August, when many birds are silent, Dickcissels continue their plaintive chant, even on the most sultry days. Their chanting is a simple "chip, chip, che-chee." They build their nests of weeds, grasses, rootlets, corn husks and the like. They build on the ground, in bushes and thistles, and sometimes in trees. The eggs of the Dickcissel are four or five in number. They are a plain, bluish white, hardly distinguishable from those of the bluebird.

Beads in the Levant.

Beads are more necessary than bread to the Levantine. Men, women and children wear and carry beads to ward off ill luck. Even the horses and donkeys have strands of beads about their necks "to baffle the evil eye" and the long horns of the work oxen are decorated with blue and white beads to keep them from falling prey to disease.

"My mother is a believer in Cardui, for she saw what it did for others as well as herself, so she began giving it to me."

"It wasn't long before I saw a change. It was just what I needed. It regulated me. I began to eat and sleep, and the pain stopped."

"Cardui is without doubt the best female tonic made, and I am glad I can recommend it to others."

If suffering with symptoms such as Miss Huggett mentions, or other ailments peculiar to women, why not begin Cardui at once? Its merit is well established by successful use for more than 40 years.

"Let us have done with wigglings and wobblings," he concluded, "steady America."

He said in part: "Let us suppose the senate had ratified the peace treaty containing the league covenant. What would be the situation confronting our country today? There is but one answer. Before this day we would have been called upon to fulfill the obligations which we had assumed under Article X to preserve the territorial integrity of Poland as against external aggression. Let us assume further that the performance of the allotted task required waging war on the Russian people, of course it would. We are glibly informed that only congress can declare war, and congress might reject the appeal of the executive. Could congress do that without staining indelibly the honor of the nation? I answer no."

every structure or locality famous in

There is, however, one species of

At first thought it might seem that no more particular interest would about any of the picturesque homes of an earlier century. Indeed it is not so much in outward appearance that they are to be set apart but because of an intangible atmosphere of sacred

PRAISE DRECO LONG AS I LIVE

"The Lord knows Dreco has been done me more good than anything I ever took," says Phoenix City, Ala. lady.

"As long as I live I'll praise this grand medicine Dreco and the Lord knows it has done me more good than any medicine I ever took" are the words of Mrs. Carrie Parish of 13th Street, Phoenix City, Ala.

"I used to have to get up during the night every half hour, sometimes every fifteen minutes relieve my bladder and kidneys.
One bottle of Dreco helped me so that I only get up twice during the whole night. My bowels also move regularly, and my liver acts well. Words fail to express my gratitude to this grand medicine.
I'll praise it as long as I live, and will keep it in my house as long as I have the money to buy it.
Any one wanting to know more about this can call on me at home and I'll tell them more."

Dreco is a vegetable remedy which acts on the kidneys and aids these important organs to perform their duty of straining the poisons from the blood. If the kidneys fail in their work we may have rheumatism, catarrh, eczema, boils, pimples, sallow complexion, or a dozen other troubles. Dreco aids kidneys to keep on doing their work as Nature intends.

All druggists now sell Dreco and it is being especially introduced in Albany by Albany Drug Co.; in Decatur by Hilda Drug Co.

Joan of Arc House.

In 1911 the city of Paris bought the old residence of the archbishops of Sens in the Saint Paul quarter with no particular thought as to what use would be made of it. The idea has now gained favor of converting it into a Saint Joan of Arc museum.
The building was built between 1474 and 1519, and is uncommonly rich in French memories. Queen Margot lived in it for a while, and it is inseparably connected with Charles VIII and the Hundred Years war. It is regarded as one of the very best specimens of Parisian architecture of the fifteenth century.

HONORS WENT TO RABBI WISE

Jewish Scholar's Story Considerably Bettered Than Related by His Christian Fellow Guest.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, head of the New York Free synagogue, rose to an emergency the other night with a fine example of the quiet humor which was characteristic of his father, the founder of the Hebrew Union college of Cincinnati. It was at a dinner at the residence of J. P. Morgan. The guests included men of prominence in various fields of public endeavor. The affair was quite informal, and the addresses were appropriate to this easy atmosphere.

References to the influence of the Jew in New York life had elicited varied comment, when one of the guests told a story. "I dreamed I died," said he, "and went across the Styx. St. Peter met me on the river bank and asked me if I would prefer the Christian heaven or the Hebrew heaven. I told him I'd look them both over and decide. He asked me which I would see first. I said I'd see the Hebrew heaven first, so he led me to it.
Everybody was talking business.
I told St. Peter I'd have to ask him to take me to the Christian heaven.
This one is just like New York," I said."

When this story had received its due measure of mild laughter, Rabbi Wood rose to speak. "It is something of a coincidence, no doubt," said he, "that I should have had a dream very similar to the one that has just been described, but nevertheless, you may be interested to hear about it. I dreamed I died and went to the land of the hereafter. St. Peter met me, just as he did the previous speaker, with a request to know whether I would prefer the Hebrew heaven or the Christian heaven. I asked if I might see both of them before I decided.

"Of course," he replied, "which will you see first?"

"I told him that I had come a great deal into contact with Christians during my career on earth and that I would like to see the Christian heaven first. He took me there, but I only remained a moment. There wasn't any one there."—New York Correspondence in Cincinnati Times-Star.

All Pages at Right.

Why not print all books in such a way that every page is a right-hand page? asks Dr. I. Winslow of Boston, who claims a patent for his conception of how to do it. He holds that if one has to read pages on one side of a book only this will be held more easily, the eyes will not wander, there will be no necessity for changing the position of the head and neck. Thus reading, especially of big heavy volumes, will be less fatiguing, not only to the eyes, head and neck, but also to the arms and hands.

Mr. Winslow's idea is to print a book so that you read straight ahead from right-hand page to right-hand page, these being numbered consecutively; then, when you have read through to the last right-hand page, you turn the book upside down and continue reading as before, what in ordinary books are left-hand pages now being right-hand pages. This, of course, involves printing all left-hand pages upside down and numbering them consecutively from the back of the book. This would easily be arranged by the printer in laying out the forms, though to get the pagination of a large book correct would require some nice calculation on the printer's part.

Flag Stayed Right There.

Court etiquette among the reigning families of Europe is not to be lightly considered, and so the story of how the stubbornness of an American doughboy upset an age-old rule of the royal house of Roumania is of more than usual interest.

Some time ago Queen Marie of Roumania accepted an invitation to ride in an American official army car. When the car arrived at the palace gates, the queen at once noted that an American flag flew from the radiator. Before entering the car she requested that the flag be removed, explaining that royal etiquette prevented her riding behind any flag save that of her own country.

Opposition arose immediately. The chauffeur, an American doughboy, announced politely, but none the less firmly, that when the flag came down he came down also, and some one else would have to drive the car. The queen, who, by the way, is a granddaughter of the late Queen Victoria of England, graciously conceded the point and the party proceeded on their way.

Genius Always Envied.
Such is the destiny of great men that their superior genius always exposes them to the butt of the envenomed darts of calumny and envy.—Voltaire.

Wouldn't Do to Confuse Him.
Patricia says that it is true that her father is not a church-goer, but no one would dare for that reason to call him an atheist. —Times News.

"Red" Roberts Says Hello To Local Friends

"Red" Roberts, a former member of the Albany-DeCATUR baseball team, has returned here for a short stay to say "hello" to his friends in the Twin Cities. During the past season he played with Grifffin, Ga., in the Georgia State league and later with a club in Georgia's Million Dollar circuit.

"Red" had the best season of his career, slapping the ball for a .400 average. He said his arm is responding to treatment and he expects to begin pitching again next year. He played in the outfield all of this year.
He will go to Birmingham soon to accept a position.

Japanese actors use their toes to

A Craven Suitor.

"I am convinced that I could never make you happy," wrote an abject lover to the lady who had won his heart. "You are of a different world from mine. You are to me as white marble to dull red clay. The devotion of my life would not recompense you for the sacrifice you would make in marrying me. I know I can never hope to make you happy, but if you think otherwise let me know by return." The woman who could accept so craven a lover as this can scarcely hope to be complimented on her judgment or on her capture.

Value of Snakes.

Most people have a decided shrinking from snakes, which is not to be
